An attorney at law and 30-year full-time law enforcement advisor and trainer, former department head at a state police academy as well as a former training officer for the U.S. Navy, Randy Means is uniquely qualified to head TRN's curriculum development and quality assurance functions. The primary legal and risk management trainer for the ACP, he has appeared on the FBI Training Network, spoken at national conferences of the FBINAA, PRIMA and taught at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Centers, east and west. His work has been mentioned in The Wall Street Journal, discussed on 60 Minutes and featured on the Law Enforcement Training Network. The Package and All Lines Aggregate Program

Our 'Package' product insures more than 100 municipal, scholastic, higher education and religious clients. Our product is designed to facilitate the client managing an element of their own risk through self-insurance. Coverage is provided for property, liability (including general liability, auto liability, law enforcement liability and public officials liability), workers' compensation and crime coverages in a single all lines aggregate program with clash coverage as standard. The Package combines the cost efficiencies of self-insurance for those elements of risk which are predictable, with the security of insurance for those elements of risk which are less so. This package framework allows the entity to set their self insurance limits at an affordable level to absorb high frequency, low severity loss (which can be partly protected through the provision of a loss fund) whilst accessing risk transfer for low frequency, high severity losses. This approach allows the client to protect their assets and optimize their earning power.

The Package is a unique product that has a number of primary features:

- ▶ It absorbs all usual and expected losses in a self-insured layer
- ▶ It eliminates the frictional costs and inefficiencies of purchasing multiple separate policies
- ▶ It improves cash flow with investment income
- ▶ It provides a stable insurance program
- ▶ It increases the insured's control of its insurance program
- ▶ It reduces the cost of protecting an insured's assets over time
- ▶ It provides tailored insurance coverage's to meet the client's needs
- ▶ It offers integrated loss control services at no cost to the client

The Package team

Andrew Murnieks, Bradley Bohler, Brandy Grove and Chris Craveiro.
